

James Geruntho

Boiling Springs, PA

The most appropriate way to improve the E-Rate program is to move it from the Federal Government to the individual States. Let each State Department of Education provide for their needs. This also has the added benefit of moving the choices closer to the voters.